DEADLINE

Deadline for the next issue of Today & Tomorrow, covering the time period Mar. 30-Apr. 12, will be Tuesday, Mar. 19, 11 a.m. Please send your copy to Allen Balderson, News & Public Information Services, 532 Parnassus Ave., Rm. 300, x1541 or x2557.

The theme is "celebration" and this year's Founders Day will celebrate the contributions of all those who make UCSF what it is today. Alumni, students, staff, faculty and the community will be acknowledged in several ways throughout the day.

For the first time, this year's prestigious Faculty Research Lecture will be presented as part of the day's festivities on Thursday, April 4. Lasker Award winner Harold Varmus, MD, who has been studying a class of viruses called retroviruses, known to cause cancer in animals, will give his lecture "Tree-Shaking and Jelly-Making: Growing Up With Retroviruses" in Cole Hall at 3 p.m.

Preceding the lecture will be an Awards Luncheon at noon in the combined lounges of Millberry Union at which the Chancellor's Award for Public Service, the Chancellor's Award for Exceptional University Service and the Distinguished Nurse Award will be presented.

Also for the first time this year, the Founders Day Banquet will be incorporated with the traditional UCSF Medal Dinner on April 4 at 6:30 p.m. at the Mark Hopkins Hotel.

On Wednesday, April 3, the entire campus community will be thanked with a kick-off party in the Millberry gym from 4 to 6:30 p.m., followed by a student dance at 8 p.m.

A special nostalgic evening will be held for all UCSF alumni on Friday, March 29, from 8 p.m. to midnight at the Faculty/Alumni House. Styled similarly to a traditional "Friday Night Frat Party," the evening will include live music and plenty of food and drink. The cost is $7.50 per person.

For further information on all Founders Day activities call 666-4723.

Colleagues, former students and friends of Lloyd H. Smith, Jr., MD, will join together to pay tribute to him during a week-long celebration on campus April 9 to 13. Smith is stepping down from the position of chair of the Department of Medicine and will move into the Dean's Office as associate dean of special projects and admissions.

In honor of Smith there will be a two-day scientific symposium on Friday, April 12, from 2 to 4 p.m. and Saturday, April 13, from 10 a.m. to noon in Cole Hall featuring presentations from well-known medical and scientific leaders including: George F. Cahill, MD, director of research at the Howard Hughes Medical Institute and professor of medicine at Harvard; Isidore S. Edelman, MD, professor and chair of biochemistry at Columbia University, College of Physicians and Surgeons; James B. Wyngaarden, MD, director of NIH; Barry M. Brenner, MD, director of the Renal Division at Brigham and Women's Hospital and professor of medicine at Harvard; and UCSF faculty CVRI director Richard J. Havel, MD; Hughes investigator Y.W. Kan, MD; vice-chairs of medicine Merle A. Sande, MD, and Marvin H. Sleisenger, MD; and Hormone Research Laboratory director William J. Rutter, PhD.

In addition, former UCSF faculty member Laurence E. Earley, MD, professor and chair, medicine, University of Pennsylvania, will join Visiting Professor Cahill on Wednesday morning, April 10, to deliver medicine grand rounds.

An invitational house staff banquet and other festivities will end the week.

NEWS BRIEFS

Frederick Mosteller, PhD, one of the most eminent statisticians in the world today and one of the best applied statisticians in the US, will speak on "Medical Technology Assessment in the Nation: Present State and Future Needs," at the 1985 Hitchcock Lecture on Tuesday, April 2, at 4 p.m. in HSW 301.

At noon that same day, Mosteller will lead a discussion at the Institute for Health Policy Studies, and will return to campus on Friday, April 19, to meet with the UCSF-Stanford Clinical Scholars.

Professor of statistics at Harvard, Mosteller is the author of over 100 papers and books spanning theoretical statistics and their application to a variety of subjects, including psychology, medicine and the analysis of literary style. During the last few years he has done work on assessing the success of social and medical innovations.

As a Hitchcock Professor for the 1985 year, Mosteller will spend March 30 to April 20 on the UC-Berkeley campus, presenting public lectures on April 8 and 10. He also will lecture at UC-Davis and UCLA.

The Charles M. and Martha Hitchcock Foundation Professorship was instituted from a bequest by Dr. Charles M. Hitchcock in 1885. The Endowment Fund was enlarged in 1930 by his daughter, Lillie Hitchcock Coit, to extend the period of residence of the holder.

Clinical trials of a multi-channel cochlear implant developed at UCSF—which a recent article in Scientific American said could "provide more realistic sound perception to patients with sensorineural deafness than the single-channel devices now available"—were launched in early March at a campus workshop attended by hearing specialists from across the country.

The visiting otologists and audiologists from 12 medical institutions who were on campus for the three-day session will be participating in national clinical trials of the implant.

A four-channel electronic device designed to provide direct electrical stimulation to the auditory nerve, the implant was developed by a UCSF research team over the past two decades and refined by an engineering group at Storz Instrument Co. of St. Louis. The device now is being manufactured and distributed by Storz, who will be collaborating with UCSF to design and further refine cochlear implant products for the deaf.

Nobel Laureate Melvin Calvin, PhD, will be on campus Monday, April 8, to deliver a special Graduate Students Association lecture on renewable fuels for the future.

A member of the UC-Berkeley Faculty since 1937, Calvin won the Nobel Prize in Chemistry in 1961 for his work on photosynthesis. He is University Professor in the Department of Chemistry and was director of the Laboratory of Chemical Biodynamics from 1945 to 1980.

Research opportunities for women and ethnic minorities in UCSF graduate programs will be increased this year thanks to a new graduate student Mentorship Program. Made possible by $45,000 in state funds, the program is part of the Graduate and Professional Student Affirmative Action Program.

"A key component of the Mentorship Program is the relationship between individual faculty and minority graduate students," according to program coordinator Cliff Attkisson, PhD, UCSF associate dean. In the second or third year of graduate study the appointed students choose one faculty research mentor each to help guide them through completion of the degree program. The student is paid as a research assistant; the student-faculty team also receives a $1,500 allowance for research expenses.

Six students have been accepted into the Mentorship Program this year: Mathew Whittico, pharmaceutical chemistry (mentor Kathleen Giacomini); George Garcia, pharmaceutical chemistry (mentor George Kenyon); Janice Guthrie, endocrinology (mentor Richard Weiner); Lauren Jacobson, endocrinology (mentor Mary F. Dallman); Cajetan Luna, medical anthropology (mentor Joan Ablon); DeLois Weekes, nursing science (mentor Marilyn Savedra).

Four or more students are expected to be appointed to the Mentorship Program for the 1985-86 academic year. For further information call Attkisson at x1555.

Jean Shinoda Bolen, author of Goddesses in Everywoman: A New Psychology of Women, will be the featured speaker at the LPPI-UCSF Alumni-Faculty Association's annual meeting and champagne brunch on Saturday, March 30, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Terrace Room of the Cliff House.

Bolen, who is UCSF clinical professor of psychiatry, will discuss "A Matter of Heart: Love as an Essential Ingredient in Psychotherapy."

New officers also will be installed at the meeting. Brunch is $20 per person. For further information call Marion Pedlar at x77-235.

Find out the latest research news from the School of Nursing at its Second Annual Research Day on Wednesday, April 3, beginning at 8:30 a.m. in Toland Hall.

Some 30 faculty will discuss their latest ongoing research projects in the general areas of:

- Neuroscience Nursing. Discussion led by Connie R. Robinson, PhD, associate professor, physiological nursing;
- Women and Health Issues. Discussion led by Virginia L. Olesen, PhD, professor, social and behavioral sciences;
- Methodology Panel. Discussion led by Jeanne C. Hallburg, PhD, associate professor, family health care nursing;
- Research on the Profession. Discussion led by Patricia E. Benner, PhD, associate professor, physiological nursing.

Everyone is welcome to attend. The next research day, scheduled for October, will discuss the School's latest projects in the areas of aging and health, chronic and long-term illness across the life span and family research.

The UCSF Hospitals Auxiliary will hold an art auction on Thursday, April 25, from 3 to 7 p.m. in the Millberry Union gym. Paintings, rare books, drawings, photographs, prints, one-of-a-kind jewelry, needlework, sculpture, ceramics and antique accessories are needed for this fund raiser.

Proceeds will provide patient amenities at the UC hospitals. In the recent past, the Auxiliary has provided free TV for all patients, art for patient rooms and waiting areas, equipment for the Pediatric Intensive Care Unit and funds for the Meditation Room.

Art donations may be brought to the Auxiliary Office, Room M 180B, from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. For further information call x4906 or Teru Hirano at x4844.

Patrick Brown, MD, PhD, is one of 16 young scientists chosen to receive the first Lucille P. Markey Scholar Awards.

Presently a resident in pediatrics at Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago, Brown will begin research at UCSF by late summer under J. Michael Bishop, MD, director of the Hooper Foundation. He will be studying the mechanisms of neoplastic transformation and eukaryotic virology.

The Markey research awards are unusual in that they provide both a stipend and research support for a period of six to eight years, enabling scholars to concentrate on research with less pressure to obtain financing for their work. The award includes an annual stipend of $30,000 and $15,000 for support of research until Brown becomes a faculty member, at which time he will receive, over a five-year period, a total of $200,000 from the Markey Foundation for further research.

The Markey Trust, which has its headquarters in Miami, announced the selection of the first group of winners in February. They were chosen from 200 candidates nominated by senior faculty members at medical or research centers throughout the country. Most of the candidates recently completed their degrees.

UCSF nurses will be represented this year at the Academy Awards on Monday, March 25. The film, entitled CODE GRAY: Ethical Dilemmas in Nursing, which was partly filmed at UCSF's Intensive Care Nursery and Intensive Care Unit, is up for an Oscar in the "Best Documentary" category.

The 28-minute film is by Ben Achtenberg and Joan Sawyer in collaboration with Christine Mitchell, RN. It documents four actual situations where nurses confront ethical dilemmas in their work. According to the filmmakers, the documentary illustrates that "because of their pivotal role in the health care delivery system, nurses are confronted daily by conflicting loyalties, responsibilities and expectations."

The Chancellor's Office has sent a notice to all departments outlining benefits you may be entitled to under the California Workers' Compensation Law if you become ill or injured on the job. The notice should be posted in areas where it can be read by all employees. If your department has not received a notice, call the Campus Risk Management Office at x2496.

The increase in the number of child victims of sexual abuse identified at a San Francisco intervention center points up an urgent need for more adequately trained physicians and support staff to deal with the problem, according to a report published by two UCSF researchers.

The report is a summary of work done at the Child and Adolescent Sexual Abuse Resource Center (CASARC) at SFGH since March 1977, published in the current special issue of Mobius, the quarterly journal for continuing education in the health sciences. This special issue of Mobius reports on several approaches and programs in the area of children's health, including the treatment of child sexual abuse, a "hidden pediatric problem."

According to Graeme Hanson, MD, UCSF assistant clinical professor of psychiatry and pediatrics, and the late Delmer Pascoe, MD, UCSF clinical professor of pediatrics and ambulatory medicine, who was instrumental in establishing the Center, CASARC has been faced with a dramatic increase in referrals in the past two years.

Articles by other UCSF faculty include: Edward Oklan, MD, MPH, psychiatry, "Psychological Midwifery During the Birth of a Family;" and Neal Halfon, MD, pediatrics and health policy, "Factors Influencing the Utilization of Health Care by Children."

Mobius is sponsored by UCSF's Institute for Health Policy Studies and published by the UC Press. To obtain a copy contact the Mobius Office, 1326 Third Avenue, or call x3904.

HONORS & AWARDS

William F. Ganong, professor & chair, physiology: Received the A.A. Barthold Medal from the German Endocrine Society for outstanding research in neuroendocrinology.

Substance Abuse Services, SFGH: Received the 1985 award for Outstanding Achievement in Drug Abuse Research/Evaluation from the California Association of County Drug Program Administrators.

Frances J. Friedrich, research associate, neurology & psychiatry; co-director, Cognitive Neuroscience Lab, Fresno VAMC: Received a $5000 UCSF Academic Senate Grant for "Effects of Parietal Lobe Injury on Spatial Skills." There is a new banking convenience available to the campus community in Millberry Union adjacent to central desk. Called the Wells Fargo "Financial Service Center," it includes an Express Stop, automated teller machine and your personal financial services officer. The Express Stop will operate during regular Millberry Union hours; the financial services officer, Robert Baron, will be available Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., or by calling 396-6904 for an appointment. For those who do not wish to bank at Wells Fargo, you may still obtain a special "Limited Services Card," valid at the UCSF Express Stop only, which permits cash withdrawals of $40 per day.

Notes from the Library:

- The 1985 edition of the Serials Title List is available. Now in its 17th printing, the list provides an in-depth coverage of medical, nursing, dental and pharmaceutical literature with some 9,200 current and ceased periodical, newspaper and serial titles, some 1,600 cross references and some 7,300 bibliographical notes. To get a copy of the list at $16.50 call Verna Astaff, x2334 or visit the Library in Room S 275.
- The Oriental Medicine Collection has received a "Fujitsu My Oasys" Japanese word processor as a gift from Fujitsu America Inc. of San Jose. The Oasys can process English, Japanese and Chinese characters and text, and can print both vertically and horizontally. Text is entered either in the Latin or the Japanese phonetic alphabet and can be converted to Chinese.
- The Library now has on display through April a photo exhibit honoring the late world-renowned specialist in heart and lung physiology Julius H. Comroe, Jr. CVRI director from 1957 to 1973, Comroe died in July of last year.

The UCSF Faculty Wives hosted an intercampus meeting in early March with guests from other UC Faculty Wives organizations, including Berkeley, Santa Cruz, Fresno and the Davis University Farm Circle. Honored guest was Mrs. David P. Gardner, wife of the UC President. The day's activities included an art, science and history symposium and a tour of UCSF's major medical facilities.

The Faculty Wives' next meeting, to be held on Wednesday, April 3, will include a tour of the gardens and testing kitchens of Sunset Magazine in Menlo Park. A luncheon will follow at Allied Arts. Tickets are $8.50. For further information call Marjorie Campagna-Pinto at 921-6646.

The Faculty Wives have donated another $4,500 to the Student Loan Fund. Anyone wishing to donate can write a check out to UCSF Faculty Wives and mail it to: Mrs. Malcolm Holliday, 101 Montalvo Avenue, SF, CA 94116.
